

Tim Hickman Launches Hard Candy Bubble Shell Case For 13" MacBook

Tim Hickman, former GM of Speck Products, has gone independent with a new line of "Hard Candy" hard shell cases for 13" MacBooks and certain PC netbook models.

Smaller portables are more likely to be tossed into a purse or backpack than into a padded briefcase, so they need protection that is always on and stylish. Consequently, hard shell cases are an ideal solution for netbooks and subnotebooks.

Hard Candy Cases is a brand new company whose CEO Tom Hickman started and ran Speck Products from the beginning (2001) until 2006. The company has been working with the same factory for the last 5 years and can produce 40,000 units a month per item, and has also been working with the same logistic partner for the last 3 years and can handle your most complex shipping, drop shipping, packaging, UCC 128, and EDI requirements.

Full story: <http://www.pbcentral.com/news/viewnews.cgi?id=EkykpkyuZlqrLUToGj>

Date: December 7, 2009